Porcini are a very common variety of wild mushrooms throughout Europe. They have a nice strong aroma and a woody flavor

Pollo della Domenica means "Sunday Chicken". It is very traditional for Sunday lunch. Chicken pieces are slowly pan roasted with herbs and wine.

Polenta is simply boiled cornmeal. It is a common side to meat dishes as it absorbs the juices therefore the flavor of the meat

"Paglia e fieno" (literally "straw" and "hay") is the combination of egg pasta (naturally yellow, the "straw") and green pasta (the "hay") in the same dish

Green pasta can be made with spinach, silver beets, chervil or herbs.

ONGERUP WOMEN IN FARMING ENTERPRISES

Ongerup WIFE has been having an exciting year and last week we held our inaugural Agronomy field walk.

We were lucky enough to have local WIFE member and former agronomist, Jolene Daniel host the event alongside Landmark Jerramungup's Kyran Brooks.

Running on enthusiasm, coffee and delicious morning tea we braved the cold and headed out onto Jolene's property to check out some nodes, flag leaves, nodules, and all things agronomy. With a focus on the fundamentals of agronomy we discussed plant growth stages, what makes happy roots and how different chemicals work. We also touched on growing fodder and break crops, grazing livestock and revegetating infertile soils before heading back indoors for a lunch of Ellie's mouth-watering laksa soup.

We had fantastic feedback from the day and look forward to running it again in future years!
