SEPTEMBER BOOK CLUB REVIEW.

THE BOOK OF DREAMS NINA GEORGE.

Henri Skinner is a hardened ex-war reporter on the run from his past. On his way to see his son, Sam, for the first time in years, Henri steps into the road without looking and collides with oncoming traffic. He is rushed to a nearby hospital where he floats, comatose, between dreams, reliving the fairytales of his childhood and the secrets that made him run away in the first place.

After the accident, Sam—a thirteen-year old synesthete with an IQ of 144 and an appetite for science fiction—waits by his father's bedside every day. There he meets Eddie Tomlin, a woman forced to confront her love for Henri after all these years, and twelve-year old Madelyn Zeidler, a coma patient like Henri and the sole survivor of a traffic accident that killed her family. As these four very different individuals fight—for hope, for patience, for life—they are bound together inextricably, facing the ravages of loss and first love side by side.

A revelatory, urgently human story that examines what we consider serious and painful alongside light and whimsy, The Book of Dreams is a tender meditation on memory, liminality, and empathy, asking with grace and gravitas what we will truly find meaningful in our lives once we are gone.

A This book was Mel Hawkins choice.

On Monday night a much depleted book club met at Mel's, only 6 of us managed to make it after a very busy week end. We all arrived on time but it took some time before we actually got around to discussing the book. First we had to dissect the week end and then we had to put the world back to rights so when we got down to discussing the book it was about 9 o'clock.

We had all read the book, a good start, we agreed it was well written, but it didn't quite have it. Roz read it in one sitting but she was the only one the rest of us read it in dribs and drabs and found we were in no hurry to get back to it. I personally read three books in-between as it did not hold my interest.

One member who sent in their report gave it a 10 but mostly this book score 5 and 7. So not a game changer.

Next month's Book Club will be held at Judy Majors on Monday 14th October. Hopefully we will have a full house. Thank you Mel for fitting us into your busy schedule and providing a great supper.
