Our lovely manager Bec was farewelled with a surprise baby shower at Yongergnow last week. She will be taking maternity leave to have her baby next month. Fun and games with pick the baby photo and other mind benders to get into the spirit of it all. To set Bec and Bob onto the baby highway they were given a tow-along cart full of baby goodies and then Bob had to negotiate their car boot space to put it all in without being able to fold the cart up! Good practise for the pram Bob!!!

Thanks to the amazing Kelly O'Neill for the games and to everyone who came along to wish them well. We look forward to lots of baby cuddles in the

Our Chef

Gord Kahle trained as a chef in Vancouver, Canada, where he worked at a number of restaurants that focused on sustainability and seasonal produce. As the Chef/Owner of Cook & Mason in East Fremantle, Gord has continued to develop fantastic relationships with producers of seafood, local farmers and some of the state's best agriculturalists. A man and his wife were driving along in their car when out of nowhere the Easter Bunny hopped in front of them. He swerved to avoid him but unfortunately he struck the bunny and knocked him down.

The basket of eggs was strewn all over the road and the Easter Bunny was laying motionless and appeared to be dead. The man was mortified and began wailing he had killed the Easter Bunny.

The man's wife got out of the car and took a look at the Rabbit. Don't worry she said to her husband I know what to do. She pulled out a can from her purse and proceeded to spray the dead rabbit.

Miraculously the Easter Bunny came to life, gathered up the spilled eggs into his basket and hopped down the road, turning to wave at the couple, he hopped another 50 metres turned and waved again and repeated this until he was out of sight.

The man was flabbergasted and said to his wife what was in that can?

She turned the can over to show him, it read...

Hair spray restores life to dead hair. Adds a permanent wave.
