New books at Ongerup library

Whistler by Ann Patchett

At the Metropolitan Museum of Art, fifty-three-year-old Daphne Fuller unexpectedly reunites with Eddie Triplett, the former stepfather she has not seen since childhood. Though Eddie was married to Daphne's mother for only a brief period, their bond profoundly shaped both of their lives. As they reconnect decades later, the novel reflects on memory, loss, love, and the lasting effects of choices and relationships across time.

The Midnight Train / Matt Haig.

When your life flashes before your eyes, where would you stop? No one can change the past, but the Midnight Train can take you there. The chance to re-live the moments that meant most. To see what kind of person you really were. For Wilbur his best days were with Maggie, the love of his life. On his honeymoon in Venice. Before he gave it all away. He wishes he could go back and live differently. But to do so risks everything ...

I eat the stars : how to live fully and beautifully in a collapsing world / Sarah Wilson.

It's hard to escape the feeling that something is deeply wrong. We are hit hourly with headlines about catastrophic wildfires, unprecedented flooding, record heat waves, collapsing democracies, AI and nuclear threat, rising economic inequality, widespread unrest and more. In Eat the Stars, Sarah Wilson argues we are undergoing what every complex civilisation before us has - systemic collapse. Drawing on many years of research and wisdom gained from more than 200 conversations with philosophers, poets, game theorists and spiritual leaders, Wilson takes readers on an intimate journey as she lays out a path for living fully, meaningfully and beautifully through these troubled times.

Toddler Time – Book Week Edition

Toddler Time celebrated Book Week today. Maddie came dressed in yellow as a very cute duck, complete with mask. So we sang '5 Little Ducks'! We read 'Baby's First Father's Day', which is a new title in the library, and coloured in book marks for our craft activity.
